

Specifically regarding Dish Network practises, but applying to all others: The bundling of services without an option of subscribing to a single channel surely cannot be defended on any level except corporate profitability. It is an abuse of powerless consumers and should be outlawed. Thank you.